Excellent results - ONSHO - from leading technologists.

The last twelve months has seen Cardiff based specialist software solutions and technology provider - Onsho Limited – deliver excellent growth in business volumes resulting in a corresponding increase in the specialist technology consultants employed within the business.

Established in 2004, Onsho build and implement highly secure and pioneering products on platforms according to clients' specifications. The company has built a reputation for delivering leading edge business solutions, including bespoke software and business consultancy.

Onsho consultants have particular experience in the financial services industry including technology expertise in the areas of Collateral Management, Broker Clearance, Global Custody, Consumer Credit and Retail Banking. In addition, the rapidly expanding team has developed complex technology solutions across a diverse range of industries using the very latest IT and Project Management Techniques.

The experience of the team's specialist consultants has seen it undertaking work for clients, which includes a leading global financial services firm where it provides bespoke software solutions and business analyst support for a variety of international applications.

Ashley Bell, Managing Director of Onsho commented on the company's success "Over the last 12 months we have achieved excellent results with turnover increasing by over 100% to almost £1million. This has seen the company expand its work force further with the recent appointment of two new technology consultants and an operations manager to assist in the day to day pressures of running the business."

As part of a major strategic review undertaken by the company in 2007, Onsho has undertaken a branding exercise with Cardiff based agency Stepping Stones Marketing Solutions. This initiative has seen the company strengthen its communication message as one of the leading bespoke software solutions companies to both the UK financial services sector and SME companies across the principality and West Country. The review was supported by funding received from the Welsh Assembly Government through the Department of Enterprise and Industry. Further information about the company can be found at www.onsho.co.uk.

Ashley Bell commenting on the initiative stated "The strategic review has highlighted opportunities that exist for Onsho both regionally, nationally and internationally, especially as we are now finding that many organisations are bringing much of their

IT and technology support back to the UK, because of problems experienced offshore. We are already benefiting from plans put into place as a result of the review and this includes the dynamic re-branding of the company which strongly communicates our core services and principles”.

One of the major target markets for the future for Onsho is the further supply of bespoke software solutions to SME companies in the principality, particularly the provision of front and back office solutions across all business sectors. Ashley Bell confirmed that the prospects for the future growth of Onsho were especially exciting. “Our extensive experience of working with major international clients provides prospective clients in Wales with an excellent opportunity to receive exceptional technology support at the most competitive rates”.
